

Graykite Website & Booking System - Developer Brief

Purpose: This document defines the updated Graykite website structure, landing page flow, experience pages, and booking rules so the build is clear, clean, and operationally accurate.

Primary user flow: Scan QR code -> land on one clean page -> view experiences -> click Book Now or See More -> select date/time -> book -> pay or authorize payment where minimum participant rules apply.

1. Landing Page - QR Code Entry Point

All QR codes from brochures, A-frames, Cambridge Beaches, and other island placements should direct to one mobile-first Graykite landing page. This page should be simple, premium, fast, and conversion-focused.

- Landing page must show all core experiences in a clean card-style format.
- Each experience card must include a short polished description, price, duration where relevant, and two buttons: Book Now and See More.
- Book Now opens or anchors directly to the booking calendar for that experience.
- See More sends the user to the correct detailed website page for that experience.
- The landing page should not be overloaded with long explanations. It should help the user choose quickly, then either book or click through for more detail.

2. Website Page Structure

The website should be structured so the QR landing page acts as the clean overview, while dedicated pages provide deeper information, imagery, Instagram content, and full product explanation.

Kari Yoga	Use the existing paddle yoga page and rename/brand it as Kari Yoga . Paddle Yoga is Coming Soon - September .	Book Now should not take bookings yet. See More goes to the Kari Yoga page.
Illuminated Sunrise / Sunset Paddleboarding + Stand-Up Paddle Snorkel Safari	Create one combined detailed page for these paddle experiences. This page should include expanded tour information, images, and connected Instagram imagery/feed integration.	Book Now opens booking calendar. See More goes to this combined paddle experiences page.
